Two Weeks to Go

With only two more weeks of strenuous campaigning left before the U.S. presidential election Nov. 4, Republican candidate Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, left, and Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson are learning new tricks of relaxation. Both men are shown catching cat-naps during their hops.

Republican Senator Says He Will Vote for Adlai

Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse 'Completely Disillusioned' in Ike

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (CP) — Senator Wayne L. Morse, Oregon Republican, says he will vote for Governor Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for president.

Morse, who often has been at odds with others in his party, said Saturday that "Never have I been so completely disillusioned about any man as I am about Eisenhower."

He first announced he would back General Eisenhower, the Republican nominee, but later said he would not actively campaign for him. Saturday he made the break complete.

"The demagogery, double-talk and dangerous desertion by Eisenhower in this campaign of his once professed political principles leaves me no honorable course of action but dissociate myself completely from his candidacy," Morse said.

The story said the most important campaign development of the last week, according to the reports, "was a gain by Governor Stevenson (Adlai) Stevenson, the Democratic nominee especially in the more populous states of the midwest and in California."

SEATTLE POLICE LAUDED

Suspect in Girl's Death Admits Crime

SEATTLE, Oct. 19 (AP) — Police checked off as solved today the 1944 slaying of a pretty Seattle girl, and said she paid with her life for finding a neighbor boy prowling through her home.

Police Chief J. E. Lawrence said a full confession to the puzzling murder of 13-year-old Frances Radecop, honor high school graduate, was signed late Saturday by Carl E. Jones, 23.

Jones, a truck driver, re-enacted the slaying Saturday in the Radecop home in the presence of several detectives, and said he was "glad it was over" after being haunted for eight years by the knowledge of the girl's death.

He said the girl recognized him when she discovered him ransacking a bedroom, and that in his fear she would "tell on me," he choked her and beat her over the head with a baseball bat. Jones said she pleaded with him to spare her life.

The slain girl's father, A. R. Radecop, went up to the young man before he entered the house and said "Carl, I'm sorry." Jones replied: "I'll do anything I can to make it up to you in any way that I can."

Jones said he had been one of the chief suspects since a woman employer tipped detectives he acted strangely when he saw a newspaper story two years ago pertaining to the then unsolved murder.

Detective waited patiently for a chance to question him while using a "lie detector." Their opportunity came when Jones was brought in Saturday in connection with the recent theft of an outboard motor.

A few casual queries about the Radecop case caused a violent reaction on the "lie detector."

Jones then was grilled intensively, Lawrence said, and finally blurted out a confession.

He signed a full statement later.

Typhoon Bears Down Upon Philippines

MANILA, Oct. 20, (AP) — One of the biggest typhoons of the year bore down on the central Philippines today. The Manila weather bureau said it would hit Samar Island early Tuesday.

Winds up to 140 miles an hour were reported at the storm center. The typhoon was moving slowly westward from a point 250 miles southeast of Luzon.

ABBOTT SEES FURTHER CLIMB IN PRODUCTION

Increase Would Mean Tax Cuts

VANCOUVER, Oct. 20 (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott today forecast boosted production, virtually assuring Canadians of tax cuts in the next budget.

As in previous references to the possibilities of tax relief, the minister said that only through increased production could Canadians hope for a reduction in the tax load.

Then, referring to the possibilities of a production boost, he added for the first time:

"This, I believe, we can confidently expect."

Mr. Abbott's reference to tax cuts came at the end of a 6,000-word speech dealing mostly with complaints that the exchange rate of the Canadian dollar is too high.

He said he would not be "unduly alarmed" to see the dollar dip below par some time in the future, but the government will not attempt to force it down by artificial means.

"With the international situation as disturbed as it is at present, and with our unusual exposure to movements of capital originating in the U.S., fluctuations in our exchange rate have to be accepted."

It may be that at some future time, the government may consider it appropriate to fix an exchange rate for the dollar; but at the moment it considers it best not to intervene.

FORECAST UNCERTAIN

The weatherman is doubtful that the rains will continue. He is forecasting cloudy skies for tonight and Tuesday with the odd shower, but said Victoria's rain was a purely local condition.

Vancouver, Nanaimo, Comox, Seattle, and Bellingham all reported no rain, but light falls were reported from Port Hardy and certain west coast points on Vancouver Island.

Today's shower was expected to finish the fire hazard that has kept the Highlands District shrouded in smoke all last week, and had Langford fire department crews working almost every night.

B.C. Forest Service spent most of the week-end "mopping up" the Highlands fires with a large suppression crew.

HELP FISHERMEN

If the wet weather continues it will fill streams and rivers that have been too dry to permit migrating salmon to reach their spawning grounds.

For this reason the federal department of fisheries has banned net fishing around the Queen Charlotte Islands and on Vancouver Island between Pachena Point and Cape Scott, where salmon are still in the salt water close to the river mouths.

Farmers and other rural residents look forward to rain to raise depleted water levels and restore their wells to use.

Despite the dry summer, and recent unusual dry spell that set records for both the fall in general and the month of October alone, the city's water supply is in good shape.

With the rain, Deputy Police Chief Harry Mercer advised motorists to exercise more caution than usual.

He pointed out that rain on top of the summer accumulation of oil on roadways makes them much more "greasy," and that drivers should keep this in mind while on the road.

Federal Government May Aid Games Fund

VANCOUVER, Oct. 20 (CP) —

The finance minister said he could not state the amount that the government likely would contribute, but that he, and other members of the cabinet with whom he had discussed the matter, were favorably inclined toward the fund and its objective.

The minister was interviewed by B.E.G. committee, headed by Mayor Hume.

Mayor Hume and other committee members requested a "generous grant" from Ottawa, said a committee spokesman, and Mr. Abbott was in "a very expansive and receptive mood."

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

William S. White took in the American presidential nominating conventions by television earlier this year and then sat down to some serious thinking on TV and its challenge to newspapers. He has reached some important conclusions. He realizes that no newspaper can beat video in speed of presentation. Nor can newspapers do the job of reproducing an individual as he appears at any particular event as fully as does the screen. But, he points out, when a person steps before television cameras he defines himself in his own terms.

What does that mean?

Just this: A man might prepare himself for video, painting laugh lines in his face and even tacking a small halo above his head. He might have the smartest writer in the world prepare for him a script which would touch the heart of Strooge or Simon Legree. He might take a few elocution lessons. And if the art work done on him were adequate, he could appear on television as someone almost saintly. There's no one like him on his own terms.

The same guy might be as vicious as the villain in a western story. His past might be as shady as Cathederal Grove. And when he leaves the studio, he might retire to his lair to eat his young. That wouldn't show on video.

Mr. White doesn't draw that picture, but he does suggest an analogy in his analysis of a televised event.

"The time has not come," he says, "and perhaps it will never come, when the television camera, even with the aid of running commentaries, can get behind the scene of what seems to be happening, to disclose what is really happening, and why and what it really means. In the famous 'smoke-filled hotel rooms' there are no cameras.

Grown-Up Reporting

"The profound opportunity open to the press," he adds, "is the opportunity for reporting in multi-dimensions, grown-up reporting with its long pants on."

That piles up a pretty heavy load for a reporter. Not only does he have to report—and report accurately—as well as furnish atmosphere, so the audience will recognize the authenticity of his story on the basis of its previous viewing of the incident on television. It makes him dig down into background so that his readers will understand his subject.

Put it this way: Suppose a person were to appear on television and represents himself to be a kindly, clean-cut, Bible-reading upholder of public morals. If his appearances were good and his script was right, he might get away with it—unless some reporter happened to dig into the files and disclose him to be a convicted and unrefined bank robber and jail-breaker.

Television itself is a genuine miracle in many ways. It can, though, lend itself to deception as convincing as the tricks of a magician. And while it may be fun to be fooled on occasions, it's not always fun.

White says the arrival of this medium presents a challenge to the press to produce grown-up reporting. From his own experience, he'll admit that many stars in the business have been turning out adult and competent jobs ever since newspapers were first published. He's right, though, in suggesting television makes that kind of newspaper work a little more essential today.

More Changes Coming

The birth of radio produced its changes in newspaper work. The report that claims readers has to be something more than a repetition of the news that's heard over the air. You've noticed the trend in newspapers in recent years. With television more changes due.

It isn't enough to present a man to an audience under terms used by Churchill when, as leader of the opposition, he opened an address to a United States audience with the statement he brought only what they say before them. Churchill, at that time, brought far more than the audience saw. He was telling them that he didn't speak as the mouthpiece of official Britain at that moment, but with him, behind him and around him was the background and atmosphere of Churchill. It was known by his listeners.

What Mr. White seems to be pointing out is that reporting now must convey to the reader something more than he sees in the transitory image of a television screen, or hears in the soon-stilled word of the radio. It makes its demands on newspapermen and calls for high qualifications.

Reporting what the man said isn't quite enough. The topflight reporter's somebody with a brain like an encyclopaedia and a sound knowledge of the laws of libel. It helps, too, if he can write.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 19 (CP)—Hosiery now develops runs "within a matter of days," the resolution added.

The resolution suggested that hosiery manufacturers were deliberately making their product less durable to increase sales.

In a resolution, the association asked the federal government to investigate the hosiery and textile industries with respect to the manufacture of women's nylon stockings.

The resolution said that when nylon hosiery was first introduced on the market, it wore for a considerable period of time. Nylon

BOYD JAIL BREAK PROBE UNDER WAY

Sensational Developments Forecast From Royal Commission Inquiry Into Don Jail

TORONTO, Oct. 20 (BUP)—A royal commission inquiry into the Boyd gang's escape from the Don Jail here Sept. 8 began today and a commission official forecast sensational developments.

"If any link exists between the underworld and anybody inside the jail, it should certainly be revealed," Clare Hope, assistant counsel to the commission, told a reporter. "There is a good chance that some of the diesel-motors may be sensational."

Gangleader Edwin Alonzo Boyd, now serving a life term at Kingston Penitentiary for bank robbery, may appear as a star witness in the later stages of the hearing which is expected to last about two weeks.

Boyd already has spoken to the press and has signed police statements about his escape with Steve Suchan, Leonard Jackson and William Jackson last month. They were captured in a barn after eight days of freedom. Since Suchan and Leonard Jackson were sentenced to be hanged December 16 for the murder of Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong here last March and William Jackson was sentenced to 22 years in the penitentiary for bank robbery.

After expert witnesses appear today to give the commissioners an idea of the jail plan, Deputy Reforms Minister G. Hedley Basher will appear. He has been running the jail since the escape. Others certain to be called were the suspended jail governor, the deputy governor and the six guards, all of whom were also suspended.

The commission, under Judge Ian MacDonnell, will want to

MAYOR WANTS NO MOVING OF BOYD

TORONTO, Oct. 20 (BUP)—

Mayor Allan Lampert today urged a royal commission investigating last month's Don Jail break not to bring former gang leader Edwin Boyd here to testify because he might tell lies and escape again.

Lampert said that if the commission wanted a statement from Boyd, who led members of his now liquidated gang in the break that prompted the inquiry, it should get the statement from him at Kingston penitentiary where he is serving a life term.

"We start shuttling him back and forth, and the first thing we know he'll be on the loose again," the mayor said.

"Why should he be called to testify?" Lampert asked. "Does anyone really believe he will tell the truth about the escape?"

Russian 'Katushas' Aiding Red Drive

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 20 (UPI)—Seven thousand fanatic Chinese Reds, backed by Russian-made "Katusha" rocket guns, smashed at Triangle Hill and Sniper Ridge in a "win or die" assault today and captured one peak of each.

The South Korean defenders of Sniper Ridge bounced back, however, and recaptured Pinpoint Peak in 10 hours of bitter and bloody fighting. But the Chinese at last reports still held Pike's Peak on American-defended Triangle Hill.

Americans of the U.S. 7th Division finally stopped the Chinese drive up rambling Triangle Hill 300 yards from its main crest.

The Chinese assault marked the enemy's strongest effort yet to recapture the two dominant hill masses on the central front lost to a United Nations' "little offensive" last week.

At the height of the Chinese attack on Sniper Ridge, the Reds hurled a near record 44,059 mortar, artillery and rocket shells on the South Koreans. The barrage equalled the second highest enemy bombardment of the war

for a single day.

HERE THERE and EVERWHERE

DISAPPOINTING—In Vernon Okanagan apple growers reported this week-end that the McIntosh apple yield is not living up to expectations even though some 900,000 boxes have been packed so far.

Growers said they have been looking for a yield of 2,774,000 boxes but the crop will probably run to about 2,150,000 boxes if packing continues at the present pace. They blame warm October weather, with the highest temperatures for that month in 20 years, for reducing the crop.

"LOFF"—Moscow radio Sunday night took listeners to a music hall in the Soviet capital for a "boy meets girl" scene—a collective farmer and a woman tractor driver working together on night shift.

The girl broke the ice. "How wonderful it is," she sighed, "to work on such a beautiful night under the full moon and do one's utmost to save gasoline."

Her companion took his cue. "The night inspires me to overfulfill my quota by a higher and still higher percentage," he declared fervently.

Soon he declared his love: "I fell in love with your working achievements from the very first moment."

COLLAPSE—In Detroit actress Bette Davis collapsed Sunday night on the stage of the Shubert Theatre during the premiere performance of the new musical revue, "Two's Company."

The well-known film star was carried off the stage by two stage hands, but returned a few minutes later to finish the show.

"You can't say I didn't fall for you," she told an applauding first-night audience.

Physicians said overwork in preparing for the revue was responsible for her collapse. Miss Davis' stage role is her first in several years.

Local drama critics agreed that "Two's Company," while in need of extensive polishing, is a potential hit.

TOUR—Four new Royal Air Force Canberras jet bombers took off from London today on the first lap of a 24,000-mile goodwill tour of South and Central American capitals. They were followed two hours later by two Hastings transports carrying servicing crews for the jet bombers. The tour will last six weeks.

OVERDUE—In Port Arthur, Ont., Progressive Conservative leader George Drew said Saturday night "the time is long over due" when Canada alone should build the St. Lawrence seaway.

"It's time for Canada to stop playing international poker with the United States," he said.

Drew spoke to the ridings of Port Arthur, Fort William and Rainy River on his whistle-stop tour of northwestern Ontario and Manitoba.

He said, "A misunderstanding or confusion in terms" was evident regarding the St. Lawrence project. It is not a new plan but a continuation of a system more than 100 years old, he said.

He said the country's first interest should be the use of Canadian resources for Canada itself. As an example, Drew said an oil pipe-line should have been brought through the Lakehead to eastern Canada before the construction of one to serve the northwestern United States.

Federal-Provincial Tory Schism Denied

Victoria Delegates to Convention See Bright Future for Party; Davie Fulton Leader

By GORDON FORBES

Federal and provincial sections of the Progressive Conservative Party are in full accord and prepared to march together in complete harmony, Robert Patch, prominent Victoria Tory, said today on his return to the city from the week-end P.C. annual meeting in Vancouver.

Mr. Patch, president of the Victoria Provincial P.C. Association, told a delegate, said the party is now in a good position to cooperate fully and all delegates, as a result of the Vancouver meeting, feel there is a brighter future for the party.

The only dissension occurred when the Young P.C.'s tried, among other things, to table the new constitution and were defeated, he said.

"But, in the main, there is complete harmony," he said.

He said all associations now have a clear cut, up to date, democratic constitution that will foster complete unity throughout the party.

"Both federal and provincial associations have representation on the B.C. association whose authority both will recognize," he said.

J. A. A. George, another Victoria delegate, said the party is now in a good position to cooperate fully and all delegates, as a result of the Vancouver meeting, feel there is a brighter future for the party.

Mr. George denied that he and Mrs. E. G. Woodward, Brentwood, had fought the constitution amendment which gave federal and provincial Tories equal representation on the executive.

"What we did fight was the Young P.C.'s amendment which would have given federal associations control of the B.C. executive. However, this amendment was withdrawn in favor of another introduced by Howard Green, M.P.

"Mr. Green's resolution gave equal representation on the executive, and was passed unanimously," explained Mr. George.

See Better Relations Ahead

Meanwhile, there is a general feeling among Tories that Herbert Ansecomb's resignation will clear the way for better relations between the provincial and federal wings of the party.

His resignation will come at a party convention at Kamloops which the Saturday meeting decided must be held before Dec. 15. Most likely date is Nov. 29.

NO SMUGGLING OF ALIENS SAYS OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Oct. 20 (CP)—An immigration department spokesman said today he is not aware of any large-scale smuggling of aliens into the United States from Canada.

"There always has been a certain number of border jumpers," he said.

He was commenting on a report from St. Albans, Vt., quoting a United States immigration supervisor as saying that organized smuggling rings are getting the aid of "some Vermont farmers" in sneaking aliens across the border from the Empress.

A R.C.M.P. official said there has been no official request from the United States for assistance in dealing with illegal crossings.

When Stalin Speaks the Truth

MARSHAL STALIN'S LAST PUBLIC statement probably was brushed off too lightly in the free world. It is worth a second and careful thought.

He says that the so-called "capitalist" nations (which can hardly be recognized by that description now-a-days) are bound to quarrel and finally to war among themselves.

His talk of kind of civil war in the free world obviously is propaganda. But when he rejoices over the danger of a quarrel he may be straying dangerously near the truth.

This, of course, is one of the primary assumptions of the Marxian theories which Stalin has so successfully debauched and caricatured in Russia—the assumption that the "capitalist" states must always extend their struggle for markets into actual war.

Like many of Marx's assumptions (his assumption, for instance, that "capitalism" will perpetually reduce the workers' living standards) the prediction that only socialist states will keep the peace has been disproved by history. The most powerful "capitalist" states like Britain, the United States and France have gone to war in recent times only when they were dragged into it by dictatorships like Germany and Japan, which were "capitalist" by Stalin's definitions but bore no resemblance to the democracies. The failure of the great democracies, on the contrary, has been to leave themselves defenceless almost until it was too late.

Nevertheless, if democracies hate war and avoid it at almost any price, there certainly are the makings of serious rifts in the free world today. Perhaps the sovereign question of our time, indeed, is whether the free world can maintain and broaden its present unity by consent, as Stalin has perpetually broadened his empire by compulsion.

Stalin at least is right in seeing that international trade is the focal point in this essential question. For if the free nations cannot do business together on a fair and cooperative basis assuredly they cannot hope for political and military co-operation.

By the free exchange of their goods they can increase the total share of all. By restricting that exchange they can reduce the share of all, even the richest. And by attempting such restriction, by carving up the world market into self-contained units of protectionism, they can produce not only poverty but unbearable political strains, just as Stalin hopes.

Since the last war the free nations, for all their mistakes, have performed a prodigy of political and economic co-operation without parallel in human history. Without it freedom everywhere would have gone under before now, as Russia undoubtedly hoped.

But after its miraculous physical recovery from the war, after its joint resistance to communism, and after a great inflationary boom in many nations, the free world begins to face a new situation. With the first dent in the boom, the first fall in some basic prices, the first signs of inevitable readjustment, the old temptation to restrict trade, to raise tariffs, to "keep the money at home," to imagine that any nation can remain rich while the rest of the world is poor—that temptation begins to appear again.

Even in this country which has erected an unbelievable prosperity mainly on the foundation of huge exports and imports, the protectionists are now in full cry. Before next year's election is over we shall be told that if we do not keep out foreign goods our economy will collapse; when it is perfectly obvious that our economy will collapse if our trade is allowed to fall.

All this is precisely what Stalin has in mind—the failure of the free nations to share their wealth and to expand it by the exchange of goods, the retreat into the storm cellar of protectionism and self-containment, a resulting world depression and then another communist advance when the going is easy.

Chips

By DAVID BROCK

I THINK it was Robert Graves' Danish grandmother who kept telling her family that even if kippers were a guinea a pair, millionaires would still buy them and count themselves lucky. I take it that she was referring to real kippers and not to poor herrings treated with creosote or whatever your modern chemist prefers. Though any kipper is better than none, I'd still choose a genuine one over a fake one. Stubborn and perverse of me, but there it is. I think I'll set up a smoke-barrel on the beach one day soon, and try smoking some herring for myself. I'm told a smoke-barrel is the easiest thing in the world, which frightens me a little. I've tried these easy dodges before. I'm game to try it once.

I'M ALSO told there is a way of kippering fish without any smoke at all, but without the use of gassy chemicals. You cover your fish, or pieces of bigger fish, with a mixture of brown sugar, pepper, salt, saltpetre, and allspice, for a couple of days, and then hang it to dry in the shade.

I've read about treating strips of raw venison in the same way . . . slab off the ham (skinned of all enveloping membrane) about a foot long, six inches wide, and four inches thick. You must have the raw meat fresh, so that the powder will stick to it well. You make a powder of 3 lbs. salt, 4 tablespoons allspice, and 5 tablespoons black pepper, and you rub this well into every part of the surface, and let as much adhere as possible.

Hang up in the shade and wind . . . or in the sun, if the weather is coolish. The meat is at its best after a month. You slice it thin and eat it raw. It is said to be miles better than "turky" or the South African biltong. Woodsmen go nuts over it. But maybe they're nuts already.

WELL, all this by the way. I merely started to talk about kippers being a bargain at any price. Because I was wondering if millionaires would feel the same way about salt cod. Like kippers, salt cod was once cheapness itself. But it seems to have outstripped many a humble food in putting on financial airs. In older books you read about what a blessing salt cod is to the poor, especially in Catholic countries during Lent. It may still be cheap in Europe, even when taken from Canadian waters. But in B.C. it is just like any other food . . . that is to say, costly enough to improve your manners and your health . . . nobody makes a pig of himself over these days without some very special motive.

IF THE HIGH price of salt cod makes us appreciate the stuff, though, it isn't wholly tragic. For it really is worth eating, and worth experimenting with. Only the low price and vulgar reputation kept the millionaires away from it in the old days. And the French millionaires ate it in many disguises even then. Andre Simon says "Like herrings, it suffers from being too cheap to be fashionable, but it can be prepared in so many ways that it deserves the attention of all true gastronomes."

THE main rule, and an all-important one, is to soak it in running water overnight or in as many changes of water as you can manage in 24 hours, and then simmer the cod, don't boil it. Almost everybody boils it, and gets a tough, fibrous product that is no good at all. After poaching it, you can do innumerable things with it. Always remembering that salt cod goes well with it, I can't think why.

Served in a plain white sauce it is nothing to grumble about, though there are fancier tricks. Another fairly plain but welcome dish is to shred half a pound of your poached salt cod and mix it with a pound of hot mashed potatoes, 2 beaten eggs, a cup of milk, a little butter, salt, and pepper. Put this in a buttered mold, make, and serve with tomato sauce. A lot depends on your tomato sauce.

TOMATO SAUCE

THESE'S a millionaire who can buy all the kippers and salt cod he requires for his fell purposes. But he can still be served with a most lamentable tomato sauce. There is no reason for this. Too many people believe that concentrated tomato soup makes a good sauce. It doesn't. It is useful in many ways, but it isn't a tomato sauce. I must have told you once, in the past couple of years, about a passable tomato sauce, but let me tell you again . . . you weren't listening the first time. I see it in your eyes. And I see it on your table.

ALL YOU do is this: melt 2 tablespoons of butter in a saucenpan; add a chopped onion, a chopped carrot; and when well browned, add 3 tablespoons of flour. Cook a few minutes and then add 2 cups of tomato puree, plus 3 or 4 tomatoes in quarters. If you're using tinned tomato puree, this stuff is concentrated, and you don't use 2 cups of the concentrate . . . use 2 cups of it diluted back to natural strength. Add 2 cups of white stock . . . a can of consomme will do quite as well, but plain won't . . . the base of your sauce is a meat soup, you see. Add 2 tablespoons of sugar, 1 of salt, 6 peppercorns, 3 sprigs of parsley, 2 stalks of celery, 1 bay leaf, a crushed clove of garlic, and a little thyme . . . just a few crumbs. Bring to a boil, and then simmer for two hours. Rub through a strainer and cool it off. It will keep many days in the ice-box. Before using, take what you need, correct the seasoning, and put in a lump of butter.

THIS sauce is one of the few REAL tomato sauces. They are not so common as you think. Their uses are infinite . . . on eggs, fish, meat, spaghetti, vegetables, and in compound sauces. But their own make-up isn't infinitely varied. Tell you what, though: you can use dried celery leaves instead of fresh stalks. The leaves have twice the flavor of the stalks, and you must never throw them away. My wife buys celery for the leaves alone, and treats the stalks as junk. She uses the leaves in soups, stews, and heaven knows what, after drying them like precious herbs. Which they are. They're even more useful than dried parsley roots.

There will doubtless be comparable attitudes expressed in other briefs presented to the commission. And the commissioners will be fortunate if they haven't other occasions on which to murmur, "Consistency, thou art a jewel."

The Three Bears

Prediction: One Will Win

By WALTER LIPPmann
From Washington

THE three Cornell professors—Pearson, Myers and Davis—who predicted the re-election of Truman in 1948, have now applied their formula to this year's election. They find, if I have understood their report, that they will not know until the day after election whether their formula forecasts a Republican or a Democratic victory.

The formula is that when commodity prices and building activity are "rising or high," the Ins stay in. This has happened in thirteen elections, including 1948. When, on the other hand, prices and building activity are "low or falling," the Ins are thrown out. This has happened in seven elections.

In 1952, as of September, when the Cornell economists finished their paper, commodity prices were high but they had fallen moderately. They conclude from this and other complications that "prediction is generally a hazardous business unless one is sure of the event." This is probably good advice, namely, never to bet except on a sure thing.

What they are still rather sure of, however, is that the "all-powerful forces" in an American election are not the candidates and the issues but the price level and "political inheritance." They hold that "most of us were born into Democratic or Republican families and never desert our inherited party"—although about 10 per cent of us do go A.W.O.L. now and then if the price level changes. That is when the Ins go out.

If this sounds a bit irritated, it is because I do not like being told that "differences in fundamental issues are of little importance in determining the outcome of elections" and that the whole argument about issues, principles, parties and men is much ado about nothing—that there is a statistical formula, although it cannot be worked clearly this year, to show that we are all of us political robots reacting to the price level.

For the campaign argument is not much ado about nothing. It is of enormous importance to the future of the country. In some degree, in a degree which neither the Cornell professors nor any one else can now forecast, it will affect the outcome of the election itself.

STILL IMPORTANT

But even if it were true that the outcome of the election is already set, no votes can now be changed, the argument between Gen. Eisenhower and Gov. Stevenson would still be every bit as important as the unstatistical American political forces that it is.

The importance of a campaign argument, and its meaning, are in the effect on the shape and character of the next administration and of the opposition. We do not know whether the next administration will be Republican or Democratic. But whichever it is, the next administration will be dealing with the political consequences of this campaign.

Certain of those consequences are already, I think, visible enough to make certain conclusions reasonably clear. One of them is that Gen. Eisenhower has failed to make himself the leader of a united party, and that the internal struggle for the control of the Republican party will go on, if he wins, after his election and into his administration.

This does not mean, as the Democrats are saying, that Gen. Eisenhower is now the captive of the old guard. For we have by no means heard the last of the progressive Republicans who brought about his nomination.

What the compromises and contradictions of the General's campaign promise is a big running fight. The Republican factions, which he is not uniting, will be fighting to control the Republican President.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"SEE," said the Elevator Man, "where the possibility of having liquor by the glass here is directing some attention to the art of bartending. Suppose everybody at heart, one time or another, has fancied himself as a bartender. Even folks who've never seen one in the flesh have dreamed dreams of building magnificent drinks, taste by taste and color by color, as an awed roomful of customers looked on, ready to cheer the final triumphant result. From that standpoint a bartender has much in common with a chef, a gardener, a symphony composer or a bank embezzler. They all keep adding a little bit more to what they've got until a grand climax is reached. And whether you pour the product into a glass, serve it in a dish, exhibit it on your front lawn, play it in a theatre or hide it in the false bottom of your suitcase the personal satisfaction must be much the same in each case. Lower main!

"All of us," said the Elevator Man, "are bartenders in a sense. We each mix a drink, which is our life. We start out with an empty receptacle and choose the ingredients that will go in. Now and then some passer-by jogs our elbow or dumps in something we weren't expecting, and that affects the final effort. But by and large we have considerable control over our life mixture. We add sweet things and bitters, build up strengths and dilute them, and the final outpouring is supposed to be our idea of what a human being should be. That's a tall order for any bartender, and no wonder there are so many questionable products. There are some pretty insipid sips turned out, some pretty sour potions and some pretty lethal doses. Only now and then does some mixer get a combination that just hits the spot. Going down!"

"That," said the Elevator Man, "is apparently what the farmer had. Each week he brought a quart of milk into the city hospital for his aged mother, who was convalescing. And each week, on the doctor's suggestion, he added a little brandy to the bottle. One day as the old lady appreciatively sipped the milk she turned to her son and exclaimed, 'Oh, John, I meant to tell you—don't ever sell that cow!'"

Mr. Lewis' Strange Advice

New York Times

What would be the public reaction, one wonders, if a leader of American industry should deliver a public address urging that business not only work for repeal of the anti-monopoly laws but openly defy these laws as a means of defeating their purpose?

He would, we suggest, be the object of public condemnation from one end of the country to the other; and he would be sweepingly repudiated by responsible industrial and business leaders everywhere.

Yet such is the political climate of the times that John L. Lewis, leader of one of the biggest labor monopolies in the country, did not hesitate to take the floor at the Mine Workers' convention in Cincinnati and urge upon union leaders precisely such a course with respect to the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act.

The big unions, he was saying in effect, are bigger and more powerful than the elected Congress of the United States and bigger than the Constitution. Why truckle, therefore, to Congress?

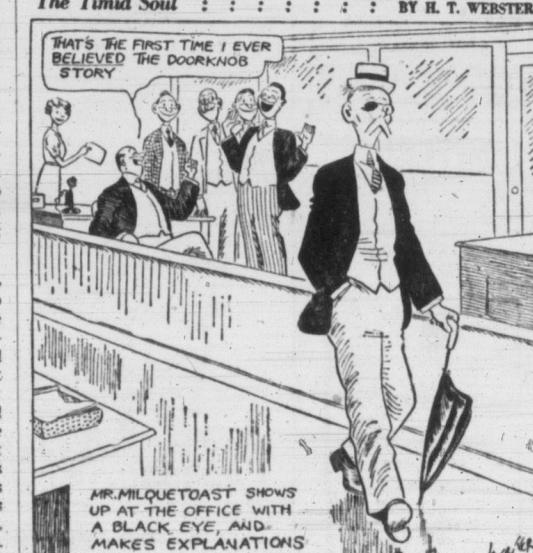

If you find Congress has enacted legislation that interferes in any way with your freedom to throw your economic and political weight around, regardless of its public consequences, the solution, says Mr. Lewis, is simple and obvious: Ignore the law. Only weaklings obey laws they don't like; only people "with less courage than long-eared jackrabbits" would waste their time trying to repeal a law they disliked by constitutional process.

ISLAND DIGEST

DUNCAN, Oct. 20—Robert Monfret, managing director of the B.C. Credit Union League, speaking in observance of Credit Union Week here at St. John's Hall, traced the history of the movement from its inception in Belgium in 1848.

Such later approval must come from the appropriate government agency—which in the United States is the Federal Power Commission.

Credit unions bring about the highest type of co-operation a community can have," he said. "People in credit unions are doing business with their friends and neighbors, and will go a long way to help them at all times."

He said B.C. credit unions had saved $17,000,000 since 1938 and $47,000,000.

DUNCAN, Oct. 20—On Thursday Education Minister Tilly Roltston will open the new Lantzville and Departure Bay schools at afternoon ceremonies, and will address the Nanaimo District Teachers Association in a evening meeting in the Plaza Hotel.

NANAIMO, Oct. 20—Plumbers and employees here have agreed on an 18-month contract, effective Nov. 1, whereby plumbers will be paid $2.05 per hour plus 4 per cent holiday pay. Helpers will receive $1.65 per hour.

LADYSMITH, Oct. 20—A collection of rare antiques, including a tea urn believed to be nearly 400 years old, was put on display here by the senior W.A. of First Baptist Church.

Included in the exhibits were a cream jug from Oliver Cromwell's time, a sapphire ring from the battlefield of Waterloo, and pottery looted during the Boxer rebellion from the palace of the dowager empress of Pekin.

U.N. Rejects Red Plan for Resuming Peace Talks

TOKYO, Oct. 20 (UPI)—Gen. commander of the Chinese "Volunteers" in Korea.

Cark said the Communist letter does not constitute a valid basis for the resumption of delegation meetings.

In a long note to the Red high command, the U.N. commander said there was "nothing new or constructive" in the letter he received last Thursday from Premier Kim Il Sung of North Korea and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai,

There appeared no hope that an armistice will be achieved at Panmunjom unless the Reds accept the U.N. principle that war prisoners must not be returned against their will.

Clark rejected a prisoner exchange plan which the Reds claimed agreed with parts of a U.N. proposal made Sept. 28 for stalemate on exchanging war prisoners, or to submit a "constructive" counter-proposal.

The Red plan provided only that the prisoners be assured they would return to a "peaceful life" in their own countries. It insisted that "all prisoners" be repatriated.

New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—The stock market subsided into its old habits today and quietly declined.

Prices turned down fractions to a point without showing any sign of being under pressure. Gains were almost entirely fractional.

Volume came to an estimated 1,100,000 shares.

Rails, steels, motors, oils, chemicals, coppers and radio-television issues were well over the declining side of the market. Other major areas were mixed or barely steady.

Lower were U.S. Steel, General Motors, Southern Railway, Sinclair Oil, Phelps Dodge, Radio Corp. and American Cyanamid.

Toronto

TORONTO, Oct. 20 (CP)—Prices continued to slip slowly today in dull trading toward the stock market's close.

Base metals and western oils drifted steadily downward to lose almost two points on the exchange's indices. Industrials fluctuated between small gains and losses. Only golds resisted the downward trend.

Trading was dull and volume was expected to reach only about 1,400 shares.

Senior golds held firm but secondary issues lost strength in afternoon trading. Among the prospects, New Dickenson had early gains but most others slipped. Most price changes were small.

Western oils losses outnumbered gains about four to one as peak and sweet grass traded actively for penny losses. Losses ranged to about 30 cents and gains to 10.

Montreal

MONTREAL, Oct. 20 (CP)—A quiet advance on the stock exchange and curb market carried prices slightly higher near the close today.

Advances ruled but were limited to fractions. Many issues were unchanged.

Papers, senior oils, steels, banks and beverages showed most of the power. Higher were Abitibi, Fraser, Imperial Oil, McCall-Frontenac, Canadian Vickers, Seagrams and Royal Bank.

Carrriers and senior metals were mixed to lower and utilities and miscellaneous industrials virtually unchanged.

Mines were mixed. Western Uranium added 15 cents at $4.30; Anacon improved 10 cents at $2.50, and Dominion Asbestos was up 5 cents at $4.65. Carnegie dropped 17 cents to $1.20. Sherritt-Gordon fell 15 cents to $6.90 and East Sullivan slipped 10 cents to $6.90.

Vancouver

Noon close revealed prices mostly lower with Silver Standard Mine at $1.35. Also at a new low was Estella at 26. Giant Nickel is off at 37. Pacific Nickel unchanged at 88.

Oils, too, are mostly lower with Calvan at $5.70, off .05; Central Leduc, $3.35, off .10; Del Rio, $3.00, off .10; Continental, $1.70, off .04; York Oil is unchanged at .36.

Industrials showed Canadian Western Lumber unchanged at $8.00 and Alberta Distillers unchanged at $2.05.

London Firm

LONDON, Oct. 20 (Reuters)—Week-end news brought no expansion in the volume of business on the stock market today as dealers acted cautiously. Apart from domestic stocks, which held reasonably firm, most sections showed an easier trend.

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Stock closings: Babcock & Wilcox 7s 6d, Boots Pure Drug 18s 10d, Canadian Pulp & Paper 15s 12d, Consolidated Goldfields 4s 6d, Courtaulds 3s 4d, Hudson's Bay Co. 191s 3d, Imperial Chemical Industries 10s 10d, International Metal Box 8s 9d, Mexican Eagle 2s 9d, Rand Mines 8s.

Solarium Derby Pays Off in Cash

The grand climax to the fishing season came Saturday night when Wes Fulton, chairman of the Times-Anglers' Solarium Derby committee, presented a cheque for $2,754.98 to Logan Mayhew, president of the board of directors of the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

City Hockey League Gets Away Tonight

CITY SENIOR GOLF BUTTONS CHANGE HANDS

Gordon Verley and Einar Brynjolfson of Victoria Golf Club defeated Bob Morrison and Frank Scroggs, Uplands, 2 and 1, to capture the city golf buttons at Victoria Golf Club Sunday.

Brynjolfson and Verley posted a best ball of 67, while Morrison and Scroggs' best was 70.

City Cage Loop Opens With Three-Game Card

Victoria and district basketball season opens tonight at Victoria High School gym.

Three games are on the agenda card.

Butler's Aces, returning to city league play after a two-year sojourn in the Saanich league, meets Vets of France in the featured senior B men's contest at 9.

Tillicums and St. Louis College midgets lift the curtain in the opener at 7 while the middle game finds Eaglettes "A" clashing with Eaglettes "B" in a barton girls' contest.

No games are scheduled Wednesday as was previously announced.

Schedule for the remainder of the month of October follows:

Saturday—7 p.m., midget boys, first game; 8 p.m., midget boys, first senior B men, Chinese Students vs. Butler's Aces; 9 p.m., senior A men, Victoria Police.

Monday, October 27—7 p.m., bantam boys, First United vs. Victoria Police; 8 p.m., junior boys, Victoria College.

Scots & Peden; 9 p.m., senior A women, Royal Canadian Legion.

Wednesday, October 29—7 p.m., junior girls, to be announced; 8 p.m., senior C men, Victoria vs. France.

Friday, October 31—7 p.m., bantam boys, Tillicums vs. First United; 8 p.m., senior A women, King's Realty vs. Victoria Police; 9 p.m., senior B men, Veterans vs. France.

Chinese Students.

Saturday, November 1—7 p.m., bantam boys, Tillicums vs. First United; 8 p.m., senior A men, Victoria vs. Victoria Police.

Two Games, Prizes, Band On Program

With a paradiddle and a flatted fifth from the Navy band, the 1952-53 Commercial Hockey League season will get under way tonight with two games, Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace and a host of prizes.

The band will entertain fans during and between the games and league officials are hoping for a crowd of 3,000 for the opening night.

First game at 7.30, matches Jim Luckie's Victoria Merchants, who lost to Navy in the league finals last year, against Dick Irving's youthful Individual Cleaners.

The feature game at 9 will bring together the perennial rivals, Army and Navy.

The sailors will be defending champions this year and are being coached by goalie Norm Jones.

Army is still without a coach, goalie Felix Lange handling the coaching position until a full time pilot can be secured. It had been hoped that Corporal J. B. Beliveau, brother of Quebec Aces' Jean Jacques Beliveau, would be coaching but he has been posted to Chilliwack as a bilingual instructor.

Lieutenant-Governor Wallace, honorary league president, will officially open the season by dropping the puck for the second game.

Kings trailed 11-10 at the end of the first quarter but led 17-14 at the half and steadily increased their margin in the third and fourth quarters.

Kings converted 12 out of 21 free throws while Chalmers made good on 12 out of 38 attempts in the rough game.

MASON HIGH

Pat Mason of Victoria was the top scorer with 10 points followed by Helen Pettigrew who pushed up nine points before she was banished with five fouls in the last quarter.

Female Kings Reign in Exhibition Hoop Match

Wally Yeaman's King Realty squad, Vancouver Island's lone senior A women's basketball squad, didn't need a map to find the victory road Saturday night in their first game of the season.

Playing at Nanaimo, Kings dumped Vancouver's Chalmers United, 36-24, in an exhibition match, the first of a series.

Yeaman's plans to have his club play exhibitions all season and then enter the B.C. playoffs in against Vancouver.

He is currently negotiating to have Vancouver Ellers, defending Canadian champions, here Nov. 1 when Ellers' men's club will be playing Pat Horgan's senior A men's entry.

Midget Hockey Opener Set

A full month ahead of last year's opener, the midget division of the Victoria Minor Hockey Association will get underway Tuesday night at 5 with two games.

Rovals and Cubs have the honor of opening the season and will be followed by the Maroons and Senators at 6.

Wednesday at 7.30 p.m. Senators will tangle with Maroons and at 7 Thursday morning there will be a midget all-star practice.

The Argonauts are a 60-minute football team. And, you might add, they are great opportunists to boot.

It took the double blues four games to prove they can last the hour without squandering fat leads. They desperately needed victory Saturday at Ottawa and they shook off the jitters to come out with a healthy 25-6 triumph over the Rough Riders and slid into second spot in the big four race.

The Argonauts now are one point up on the Dominion champions and behind the red-hot Tiger-Cats who pawed the futile Montreal Alouettes for 30 minutes and then smacked them down 21-1. The Bengals can walk into the playoffs with another victory over the Rough Riders at Montreal next Nov. 8.

In the west, fans at Calgary and Edmonton have a good look at the kids who have been warming the benches most of the season and what they saw was pretty good. Nothing was at stake in the Western Conference, except probably a few contracts for next year, and the eager-eyed youngsters, backed by a few tried veterans, scampered all over the grounds.

The results in the end-of-schedule games: Winnipeg Blue Bombers 42, Calgary Stampeders 18; Saskatchewan Roughriders 31, Edmonton Eskimos 28.

The Toronto-Ottawa game was the key contest in eastern Canada and the double blues, whose last-half lapses started in Ottawa a couple of weeks ago, proved to the 15,984 partisan fans that they'll be tough in the second and final playoff spot when the Big Four schedule closes Nov. 8.

The schedule favors Argo-

Joint Derby Possible In Future

Possibility of the Victoria Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association and the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club joining together for future salmon derbies was expressed by V.S.L.A.A. president Wil Wilson Saturday night.

Speaking at the wind-up banquet of the Anglers-Times Solarium derby promotion, Wilson said the Cowichan Bay club would be approached on such a plan.

He also paid tribute to the work of the Anglers-Times Solarium derby committee for their efforts in raising the sum of $27,548 for the Solarium, highest total ever reached in the annual event.

The band will entertain fans during and between the games and league officials are hoping for a crowd of 3,000 for the opening night.

Spokane in Double Win Over Smokies

Spokane Flyers opened their Western International Hockey League season Saturday night at home by flooring Trail Smoke Eaters 7-1 and then continued their scoring pace the following night with an 8-2 victory over Smokies.

In other weekend W.H.L. activity, Nelson Maple Leafs ran up an early lead and spun it out to defeat Kimberley Dynamiters 6-2 at Nelson. It was Nelson's first league game.

Harry Woolton, who started the derbies six years ago, presented a brief outline of past derbies, which have met with increasing success each year.

Sports Editor Bill Walker of the Times said "it was a pleasure to work with the anglers who deserve all the credit for the derby's success." Walker assured the gathering that the Times would "double its efforts" in future derbies.

The feature game at 9 will bring together the perennial rivals, Army and Navy.

The sailors will be defending champions this year and are being coached by goalie Norm Jones.

Army is still without a coach, goalie Felix Lange handling the coaching position until a full time pilot can be secured. It had been hoped that Corporal J. B. Beliveau, brother of Quebec Aces' Jean Jacques Beliveau, would be coaching but he has been posted to Chilliwack as a bilingual instructor.

Servants Win; Wests-Scots Tie

Civil Service hustled their way to a 4-2 victory over Esquimalt Sunday at Athletic Park and gained a share of first place in the Victoria and District Football Association standings.

The conquest put Civil Service in a two-way tie for the lead with Legion, each club having an identical record of two victories, no defeats and one tie for five points.

Victoria Wests hold down the runner-up spot with four points.

Superior conditioning appeared to pay off for Civil Service as they controlled play in the second half after Esquimalt began to tire under pressure.

Esquimalt sorely missed the services of left-half Alf Jenkins who went on the injured list last week.

The servants rushed into a 2-0 lead in the first half when Jack McIntyre at 36 minutes and Ab Travis at 43 minutes, manufactured goals.

TRAVIS NETS TWO

Travis bared in from his wing at five minutes of the second half for his second goal and the third for Civil Service.

Esquimalt picked up their only goal at 19 minutes when they were awarded a penalty kick, Nip Sage picking the left-hand corner to make it 3-1.

George Wilson, who replaced Jack Thompson at right wing, noted Civil Service's final goal at 42 minutes.

However, probably the oddest record in the league belongs to Victoria Wests.

Saturday afternoon Wests battled to a 1-1 tie with Canadian Scottish, their fourth straight no-decision match of the year.

Ralph Thorne received credit for Wests' goal when his high shot was deflected into the net by Ted Dover-Masters. On the play, Scottish goalkeeper Bob Sherratt was temporarily knocked unconscious when he hit the post head first while attempting to prevent the goal.

INJURIES COMMON

Sherratt was hurt again when he collided with teammate Jim Caldwell. However, Caldwell was the more seriously injured and had to be carried from the field of play, suffering a groin injury. Wests had their problems, too.

Lionel Speller, Jack Rodgers and George Brown were unable to finish the game because of injuries, Wests playing the final 20 minutes with only 10 men.

Next week's schedule finds Heanes meeting Scottish Saturday at Windsor Park and Civil Service and Legion battling for the lead Sunday at Athletic Park.

TOO CLASSY FOR SAILORS

Vampires in Third Win

Ray Mitchell's scorching-hot Vampires established at least a tie in the final standings of the Victoria Junior Canadian Football League Saturday when they blazed Navy 10-1 to run their undefeated string to three straight games.

Royal Roads, runner-up to Vampires in the league standings, are four points behind Vampires with two games left and must win their last two games to force the tie.

Vampires exhibited too much class for Navy as witnessed by the game statistics.

They piled up 12 first downs to Navy's two, 20 yards rushing to 51 for Navy, 115 yards passing to Navy's nine, completed eight out of 14 passes to two out of 11 for Navy.

Navy picked up one point in the first quarter on Doug Brown's single on an attempted field goal.

MICHIGAN STATE PROVES RIGHT TO TOP RATING

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP) — The Behemoths of U.S. college football—almost without exception—continued to pile up victories Saturday as the campaign reached the halfway mark for most schools.

Michigan State, the No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll, led the parade with a 48-7 crunching of Syracuse.

Not to be outdone, second-ranked Maryland clubbed Navy into its first defeat 38-7. Third-rated California made it 27-7 over Santa Clara.

Georgia Tech and Duke, two of the leading lights in the south, both scored impressive shutouts as they roared toward their showdown meeting Nov. 1. Georgia Tech bashed Auburn 38-0, while Duke overwhelmed North Carolina State 53-0. (See football results for other scores).

Wanderers Get Battle From Winless Students

Oak Bay Wanderers recovered from first-half jitters Saturday to trounce winless Victoria College 17-6 in third round play of the Victoria Rugby Union schedule. It was Wanderers' third straight victory.

On the lower field J.B.A.A. moved into second place by edging the defending champion Crusaders 8-5.

At first it appeared as if the upper field was going to be the scene of a mighty upset as the vaunted Wanderers found themselves decidedly outplayed by a spirited band of students who continually hemmed the league leaders in their own half.

The game was a mere minute old when captain Walt Yoon intercepted a pass and dodged his way 45 yards to give the half-time score at 5-0.

BROKEN LEG

Hard luck hit the Bays at the opening of the second frame when captain John Poole was carried off the field with a broken leg. His shorthanded teammates still managed to control the play, however.

Floyd Curry broke a 1-1 deadlock against the Bruins Saturday to give the Montrealers an even break in their two games. Bernie Boom Boom Geoffrion scored early in the second session and Johnny Pearson tied it at 13-13. Curry's game-winning counter was notched at 6:02.

Then came the break that gave Wanderers the lead they never relinquished. With the half seconds from completion a last-minute Wanderer drive resulted in John Jeffries scoring a try after an obvious "knock-on" which the referee couldn't see.

Paul Beck made good on the convert and Wanderers led 8-3.

College opened the second half with another drive that bogged down near the goal line. Wanderers struck back on the next play, Lorne Prevost climaxing a smart three-line run to reach paydirt from left wing.

Oak Bay's next score came when Prevost picked up a loose ball on the 50-yard line, raced half way to the line, and then cross-kicked to Beck who covered the remaining distance. Beck missed the convert.

INDIANS NEED HATE COMPLEX TO BEAT YANKS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 20 (AP)—

Hate the New York Yankees? "I hate everything about them, and I want my players to hate them, too," the Cleveland Indians general manager Hank Greenberg told a reporter yesterday.

Hank, far from letting bygones bygones now that the Yanks are champions again, snorted: "It's psychological. The psychology of superiority—that's what they beat you with."

"When I was with the Detroit Tigers we had an anti-Yankee complex. Even now, although the Tigers' personnel is different, they still possess that feeling of being able to beat the Yanks."

How to get the Cleveland Indians to hate the Yankees?

"I wish I knew," mused Hank.

Wilwyn Captures International Race at Laurel; Indian Hemp Last

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 21 (AP)—International racing received a tremendous boost Saturday as Wilwyn carried Britain's colors to victory in the $50,000 Washington international classic.

The win for the English colt at Laurel Park in a new course record of 2:30 4/5 for the 1½-mile proved foreign horses can be flown to the U.S. week before a big race and take the honors. It was Wilwyn's 11th straight victory for owner Boucher of Kent.

Canada's entry, Indian Hemp, revealed early foot by leading in the first stages of the race but faded and trailed the field at the finish. The three-year-old Irish-bred is owned by Max Bell, publisher of the Calgary Albertan. Johnny Longden who rode the youngest horse in the field of seven said Indian Hemp "was dead after a mile-and-a-sixteenth."

WALKING START

The international brought together seven horses from England; Germany, Canada and the United States. Racing over the infield grass course with a walk-up start gave the foreign horses something they were used to.

Even so, Greek Ship, Ruhe und Plaster, the three steeds carrying colors for the U.S., were figured to finish fast. But the foreign horses ignored such things as long plane-rides and climate changes to take three of the first four places.

Mann Mercer rode Wilwyn home a length and three-quarters ahead of Hasty House Farm's Ruhe. George Rolls' Zuccherino ran third only half a length behind Niederrlander, the German derby winner, was a neck away in fourth. Brooke meade's Greek Ship, the 6-5 favorite, came in sixth.

Despite the brilliant showing of the foreign horses, Boucher and American turf observers agreed it would be too much of a handicap to pit them against horses under U.S. racing conditions. The dirt track and starting gate are something they aren't used to.

"Also, football develops initiative, individuality and leadership. Now, you apes, get out there and play this game exactly like I told you to!"

Spectacular B.C. Fire Razes Bailing Shed

CRANBROOK, B.C., Oct. 20 (UPI)—The most spectacular fire of the year at Cranbrook in the Kootenay Sunday demolished the bailing shed of the Cranbrook Sash and Door Company.

Firemen assisted by plant workers prevented the flames from spreading to the planer, garages and other equipment and the adjoining company yards.

The entire bailing shed was in flames before the fire was spotted. The plant had been closed since Saturday noon. Cause of the blaze was not immediately known and there was no damage figure.

PR. GEORGE RESTS IN MAINLAND DOCK

Survey C.N.R. Luxury Liner Following West Coast Grounding; Inquiry Ordered

The Canadian National Steamships' $3,000,000 flagship Prince George was drydocked in Vancouver today for an inspection of damage done when the vessel ran aground off the West Coast in a dense fog Saturday morning.

She arrived in port Sunday with escorting tugs fluttering around her.

Aboard were 274 persons—144 passengers and 130 crew members—when the four-year-old ship, bound from Alaska, struck with a glancing blow. No one was injured, but one of the propellers was damaged.

Capt. E. B. Caldwell, who was on the bridge, reported: "She struck, starboard aft, with a glancing blow. There was not a much of a thump."

He said the radar was not in operation. It went out of whack during the voyage north.

She made port under her own steam, using her one good propeller.

Bazooka Bomb Blast Kills, Hurts Canucks

BY BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, Oct. 20 (AP)—It was the explosion of a bazooka bomb which took the lives of two Canadian soldiers and injured 21 others in a training accident near Kure, Japan, last Friday, 25th Brigade headquarters disclosed today.

The accident occurred at the Canadian wing of the Commonwealth division battle school at Hanamuea near Kure, but in announcing it Friday the army gave no details.

Killed were Cpl. Carlo E. Bignucolo of Chapleau, Ont., and Pte. Warwick C. Ryan of Bell Island, Nfld.

Pte. Russel E. Brand of Kirkland Lake, Ont., and Pte. Clarence Vincent of St. John's, Nfld., are listed as dangerously ill from wounds.

In giving details of the accident today, 25th Brigade headquarters told this story:

Thirty-two Royal Canadian Regiment soldiers were getting machine gun instruction on the firing range from Lieut. G. F. B. Ritchie of Brantford, Ont. During the morning break Cpl. G. F. Eady of London, Ont., discovered a bazooka bomb in the area and removed it to a safe place.

He warned the men against touching it but shortly afterward Cpl. Bignucolo began examining it. It was then that the rocket-type missile exploded.

THE CAINE MUTINY

Mr. Dennis' office was a green-painted cubicle in the rear of the cellar. The walls were plastered with photographs of actors and singers. The light was a single bulb dangling from the ceiling.

"What do you think about the red?" he said, applying a match to a cigar stump.

"Well, the blonde is no barn-burner."

"Guess not. What about the redhead?"

"Ah—what's her name?" Willie asked.

"May Wynn," said the proprietor, squinting at Willie, possibly because of the burning cigar end an inch from his face.

Occasionally a name is spoken that sets up a clamor in one's heart, as though it has been shouted in a big empty hall. Often as not the feeling proves a delusion. In any case, Willie was shaken by the pronouncing of the words, "May Wynn." He said nothing.

"Why? What did you think of her?"

"What's her figure like?" replied Willie.

The proprietor choked over his cigar, and flattened its meagre remains in an ashtray. "What's that got to do with the price of herring? I'm asking you about her singing."

"I don't know," Willie said. "Could be that Mozart thing would be a delightful novelty—distinction, class, charm. Could also be that it would clear out the place like a stink bomb—Let's hear how she does something straight."

May Wynn's "Sweet Sue" was better than her previous jazz singing—possibly because it was not inserted in a framework of Mozart.

"Who's your agent, dear—Bill Mansfield?" said Mr. Dennis.

"Marty Rubin," said May Wynn, a little breathlessly.

"Can you start Monday?"

"Can it?" gasped the girl.

"Okay. Show her around, Princeton," said Mr. Dennis, and vanished into his office.

"Congratulations," said Willie, extending his hand. The girl shook it briefly in a warm, firm little grasp.

"Thanks. How the devil did I get it? I murdered the Mozart."

Willie threw himself at his galoshes. "Where would you like to eat?"

Luigi's was a bright small restaurant full of little tables in rows of booths. The warmth and the spicy smell were a pleasant change from the chill rainy twill outside.

"You lie. This is the hottest, stuffiest restaurant in New York."

May Wynn rose, almost as reluctantly as if she were being compelled to strip. "I'm beginning to think you're very silly—Well," she added, her face flushing, "stop looking at me like that—"

When May at last took off her coat, Willie had the appearance of a startled stag—for good enough reason. Her figure was glorious. She wore a purple silk dress with a narrow grey belt. She sat, all in confusion, trying not to laugh at Willie.

"You have a figure," said Willie, taking his seat in slow motion.

"Bitter experience," said May Wynn. "I don't like to get jobs or make friends on the strength of my figure. Things are expected of me that I can't deliver."

"May Wynn," said Willie thoughtfully. "I like the name."

"That's good. It took me a long time to think of it."

"Isn't that your name?"

"Of course not. It's too good."

"What's your name?"

"Sorry—"

"I don't mind telling you, though I usually don't blab it. My name is Marie Minotti."

"Oh," Willie looked at a waiter carrying a tray heaped with spaghetti. "Then you're at home in here."

"Very much."

Willie's reaction to the discovery that May Wynn had an Italian name was complicated, and quite important: a mixture of relief, pleasure, and disappointment. A night club singer who could carry a Mozart aria with understanding was a wonder, for in Willie's world familiarity with opera was a mark of high breeding—unless you were an Italian. Then it became a mere racial quirk of a lower social group, and lost its cachet. Marie Minotti was someone Willie could cope with.

She regarded him with narrowed eyes. "What are you thinking?"

"The nicest possible things about you."

"Your name, no doubt, is really Willis Seward Keith?"

"Oh, yes."

"Well, Princeton," said the girl with a light laugh, "obviously we can never hit it off. My folks came over in 1920. My father runs a fruit store in the Bronx. My mother hardly speaks English."

The pizzas arrived on two large round tin platters: smoking hot flat cakes of dough covered with cheese and tomato sauce—and, in Willie's dish, sprinkled on one side with chunks of anchovy. May Wynn picked up a triangular slice, folded it expertly with a flip. "My mother's pizza is better than this. As a matter of fact, I made about the best pizza in the world."

"Will you marry me?"

"No, your mother wouldn't like it."

"Great," said Willie. "we understand each other. Allow me to tell you, then, that I'm falling in love with you."

The girl's face suddenly clouded over. "Keep the blows above the belt, chum. Let's talk about books. You're a Princeton man."

"They did talk about books, between mouthfuls of wine and pizza. Willie started on current best sellers, with which May had a passable acquaintance, and worked back toward his eighteenth- and nineteenth-century favorites, whereupon the girl's answers grew lazier.

"Dickens," said Willie fervidly, riding high on a crest of comparative literature, "if I had any strength of character I'd spend my life doing research and commentary on Dickens. He and Shakespeare will be felt when English is dead as Latin. Do you know his works?"

"All I've read is the 'Christmas Carol.'"

"Oh."

"Look, chum, I never got beyond high school. Things were tough at the fruit store when I graduated. There was a little matter of keeping myself in dresses and stockings—and the family in food, every now and then. I've worked in dime stores and orange-drink stands. I tackled Dickens a couple of times. He's hard going after a day on your feet."

"You'll love Dickens someday."

"I hope so. I think appreciating Dickens goes with ten thousand in the bank."

"Your mama has. Same thing."

"Shall we go? I want to work over my numbers tonight, as long as I've got a job."

It was raining hard outside. Fluorescent signs, blue, green, red, cast blurry pools of color on the wet black street. May extended her gloved hand. "Good-bye. Thanks for the pizza."

"Good-bye! I'll take you home in a cab."

"My boy, a cab to Honeywell Avenue in the Bronx would cost five dollars."

"I have five dollars."

"No, thanks. Subway for the likes of me."

"Well, let's take a cab to the station."

"Cabs, cabs! Why did God give you feet? Walk me to Fifteenth."

Willie recalled some rhapsodies by George Meredith on walks in the rain, and fell in beside the singer. She took his arm. They strolled in silence, droplets hitting their faces and rolling off their clothes. The hand resting on his arm sent a soft glow through the rest of him. "There's really something rather delicious about walking in the rain," he remarked.

May glanced at him sidelong. "You wouldn't think so if you had to do it, Princeton."

"Oh, look," said Willie, "stop playing the poor little match girl. Is this your first singing job?"

"First in New York. I've only been singing for four months. Worked a lot of dives in New Jersey."

"How does Mozart go in a Jersey dive?"

May shuddered. "Never tried it. Out there they think 'Star-dust' is a heavy classic, like a Bach mass."

"Who wrote those English words of yours? You?"

"My agent, Marty Rubin."

"They're terrible."

"Write me better ones."

"I will," shouted Willie, as they crossed Broadway through a stalled jam of honking taxis and buses. "Tonight."

"I was kidding. I can't pay you."

"You have already. I've never in my life enjoyed Mozart as I did this afternoon."

May slipped her hand away from his arm. "You don't have to say such things. I really dislike smooth talk. I've been fed it by the yard."

"Every now and then," Willie answered, "say, once in the course of a week, I'm honest."

May looked at his face. "I'm sorry."

"They stopped at the kiosk. The shabby wrinkled newsman hawked imaginary victories in a hoarse voice, his headlines concealed under tarpaper. Crowds shouldered past them. "Thank you for dinner," said May Wynn.

The Victoria nylon factory of McCurdy Hosiery Ltd., which recently suffered extensive fire damage, will be rebuilt and expanded, it was announced at a shareholders' meeting over the weekend.

E. B. Smith, a director of the firm, said 29 new knitting machines are now being shipped to Victoria. In addition, 40 more machines will be ordered and directors expect that additional buildings will be needed.

George Ripley, superintendent of the McCurdy factory, was elected a director at the meeting. He replaces Mrs. L. Cameron who is retiring from the board.

GOSLEY'S GANG GETS 'GEN'

Korea-Bound Smile Show May Carry Love, Kisses

Jerry Gosley's Smile Show company is devoting this week to learning Japanese hit parade tunes and becoming acquainted with Korean army slang.

The five-man unit will leave Victoria Oct. 31 to begin its journey to the war zone. While the group is principally concerned with taking songs and jokes "from home," it is not missing the opportunity to learn a few numbers with a Korean angle.

Lieut. A. Bull and P.O. John Radley, both of whom have only recently returned from overseas, are acting as "technical advisers" in this regard.

Gosley is hoping to meet personally as many Vancouver Island boys as possible on his six-week tour. He is inviting relatives of men overseas to phone him at B-7792 if they have messages to send. He and his troupe will do their best to deliver them.

The troupe, comprising three men and two women, has received instructions from Ottawa that "ski-type" clothing will be required while traveling in Korea because of cold winter weather.

Ten 'Times' Launch Lad On Career of Selling

Now let's consider for the moment the case of Danny Johnson.

Danny Johnson is featured as the Times junior salesman of the week.

He's only been on the Times' circulation staff for six weeks but he's already well established at the corner of Yates and Blanshard, in front of the Capitol Theatre, and he's just about set to buy himself a bicycle with his earnings.

Here is how Danny got started in the paper business:

"I saw everybody selling papers downtown so I thought I'd come down and see what it was all about.

"I got 10 papers the first day and thought I might not sell them all. But I got rid of them so fast I came back and got some more and sold them, too. I've been selling ever since."

Danny is 11 years old and is in grade six at Victoria West School. He lives at 878 Esquimalt Road and is one of six children. He has two older sisters, two younger brothers and a baby sister.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

You remember that Governor-General Vincent Massey was confined to his private railway car for a couple of days, while he was visiting Calgary on his way to Victoria.

The reports were that he had a throat infection, which fortunately cleared up in time for him to complete his B.C. visit.

Now a constituent comes along with a rather different theory about what was wrong with the Governor-General. He points out that the paper ran the following headline:

GOVERNOR-GENERAL HIT WITH PRAIRIE STUDENTS

No wonder he was a little indisposed, after being hit with a husky prairie scholar or two.

There is a story circulating around the motor vehicle licensing branch which you may enjoy.

A charming and intelligent female was taking her driver's test, and was asked: "Do you know what it means if the driver in the car ahead of you puts out his hand?"

Asked the lady: "Is it a woman driver or a man driver?"

Said the examiner: "Let's pretend it's a woman."

"Then," explained the lady, "if she puts out her hand it means she's going to turn right or left or stop or back up or dry her finger nail polish."

"Very good," said the examiner. "But what does it mean if a man puts out his hand?"

"It means he's waving at a woman."

How many prime ministers are there in Canada?

One, or 12?

Reason I'm asking is that I've always understood Canada has one prime minister, and that each province has its premier. But apparently it is a debatable point.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett reports that he inherited two brief cases when he took over his present job.

Each is neatly stamped with gold lettering.

One reads "Premier," the other, "Prime Minister."

You can't tell your title without a brief case.

Probably the most fantastic theory I have ever heard has been advanced by a Spanish dancer-type named Jose Greco, who has recently been performing in Eastern Canada.

"If more people rumbled before breakfast," he says "there would be fewer divorces."

All I can say is the first time somebody rumbles at our house before breakfast, father is going to do some REAL rumbling.

Guests at the Henderson-Dewar wedding Saturday looked goggle-eyed at the bulletin board outside First United Church, listing Sunday's sermons by Rev. Moir Waters:

A.M. service: "WHAT HAVE I DONE TO DESERVE THIS?"

Evenings: "A SHORT BED AND A NARROW BLANKET."

The happy couple, honeymooning in the United States, have not been heard from.

Incidentally, at the reception following the wedding, Editor Bruce Hutchison proposed the toast to the bride whose father, Harold ("Hendy") Henderson, is a lifelong friend. Bruce concluded this way:

"I ask you now to charge your glasses and . . . by all means, charge them to Hendy."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

G. R. Currie, Vancouver, industrial relations officer for B.C., has been appointed by the Federal Department of Labor as conciliation officer in a wage dispute between the C.C.L. Machinists' Union Local No. 3 and the B.C. Coast Service of the C.P.R.

The current wage dispute between the union and Yarrow Ltd. will be heard by a conciliation board meeting Oct. 27.

C. E. Walls, secretary-manager of the B.C. Farm Federation, will address a meeting of the South Vancouver Island Poultry Association at the Women's Institute Hall, Royal Oak, at 8 p.m., Wednesday.

Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of B.C., left today for Prince Rupert to preside over a session of the synod of the Diocese of Caledonia, Oct. 23.

A bishop will be elected to succeed Rt. Rev. J. B. Gibson, who died in a motor accident July 24. The synod will be attended by all the bishops of B.C. and the Yukon, as well as clerical and lay delegates.

Sanich Recreation Council will hold its annual meeting Tuesday, at 715 Johnson Street.

The meeting will start at 8 p.m. Committee members will submit yearly reports.

R.C.M.P. Colwood detachment officers today were investigating what is believed to be a suicide shooting of a man in that district during the night.

Police would not reveal the identity of the victim until next-of-kin have been notified, but it is understood death was due to a gun-shot wound in the head.

William Allan, manager of Veteran Junk Company, 555 Johnson Street, wrote the city today asking for a permit to establish a scrap yard on property.

Socreds Say Breach Healed

Victoria Social Creditors have closed their ranks. A split, which occurred last spring, has been healed, it was learned today.

E. O. Duke, who reportedly resigned from the presidency of the Victoria "S.C." Constituency Association in a dispute over choice of candidates for the general election, is now in accord with the organization and will attend the group's annual meeting at the Knights of Pythias Hall tonight at 7:30.

William Fahey, formerly first vice-president, and Barclay Shaw, formerly second vice-president, who resigned with Mr. Duke, also have returned to the "fold."

Many Victoria Socreds partially blame the resignations, which came just before the general election, for the party's poor showing on the Island. (No Socred candidates were elected on the Island.)

Cougar Hunter's Bag Assures Good Day's Wage

Jimmy, two-and-a-half, and Pete, not much older, are too well accustomed to cougars to get excited about posing with a few. Jimmy's too young to do much more than pat the sleek heads of the cold cats; but Pete is a partner in the firm of James Paton and Pup, who are bonus hunters. Paton, of Langford Station, made a foray over the weekend and brought back the four trophies, draped over his car, here. They are a male, female and two half-grown kittens. He covered much territory, from East Sooke to Campbell River. At $20 a head the bag made good wages. (Times Photo.)

CITY SOLDIER HURT IN TANK

An exploding 50-calibre shell in his tank caused the wounding of Tpr. C. S. Davie, 3375 Maplewood, on the Korean front, his parents have been informed by Ottawa.

With the Lord Strathcona Horse, Tpr. Davie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Davie. The shell exploded while he was in action in support of infantry on Oct. 3.

City Man's Body Found Floating Off Dallas

Alex Sedgley, 64, of 431 Heather, was found drowned in the waters off the 100 block of Dallas Road at 5:40 Sunday night.

Jerry Moss, 13, of 80 Dallas, spotted the floating body and it was brought to shore by Roy Moss.

Firemen, led by Chief Frank Briers, applied artificial respiration.

Sentence for James Ernest Curtis, 16, of 1703 Fernwood, who was typed the "messy marauder" due to the wake of damage he left in his raids on seven houses in the high school district and south Fairfield, was remanded to Friday in city police court today. Magistrate H. C. Hall noted that the probation officer's report on the good-looking, tall accused would not be ready until later in the week.

Indoor-Blooming Bulbs Brighten Home in Winter

By PENNY SAVER

Fall is the time when we gaze in awe at the magical changes in color from stark greenery to warm glows of gold, bronze and even flame red.

It is a time, too, when we recall with a certain amount of envy the gay blooms and foliage that have passed with summer. A little downcast, we think ahead to dreary winter days without floral accompaniment.

There is a way, though, to bring the floral touch into your own home. The secret? Indoor-blooming bulbs.

Country dwellers whose outdoor gardens must wait till next year's are old hands at joys of indoor flower growing. The gay colors of crocus, daffodils and hyacinths will bring a touch of spring into any apartment or home, while the sweet fragrance of hyacinths can perfume any room.

City dwellers who don't have much time or room will find bulbs ideal for indoor forcing. "Forcing" simply means making a flower bloom before its regular outdoor season.

Any of the bulb flowers can be grown successfully in the window of an apartment in pots, bulb pans or flats, according to the number of bulbs used or the desire of the grower. A rich, fairly moist garden loam or potting soil is suitable in which to arrange your Dutch bulbs.

Tulips, daffodils and crocus should be planted as early as possible in fall for indoor bloom. Hyacinths can be potted any time through November and December.

Set tulip and daffodil bulbs one-half inch apart. That is about the bulb tips are showing above the soil surface. Hyacinth bulbs should have about one-quarter of the upper part of the bulb exposed. Crocus should be completely covered. Hyacinths can be potted singly in four or five-inch pots or five in an eight-inch bulb pan.

After the bulbs have been planted, water the pots thoroughly and store them in a cold (about 40 degrees) dark place for about eight to ten weeks.

During this period the bulbs will develop roots. By this time the flower buds will be out of the neck of the bulbs. This is the signal for you to put your pots in partial light at a temperature of 60 to 65 degrees for the first week. After that place the bulb pots in a sunny window and water as needed. You will have something to brag about to the neighbors and you won't have had to spend many pennies.

Friday Dish Towel Monday Doesn't Upset This Writer

I am worried! I just went into the kitchen and saw a dish towel hanging on the rod. The rod is still attached to the wall, heaven. This dish towel, let us be gay and call it a cloth, has "Friday" stamped on it in very large red letters.

It makes me feel snug in a disorganized way. I feel snug because having such a towel suggests that I am a meticulous housekeeper, but it makes me feel disorganized because it is up on the wrong day. You see, this is Monday.

Frankly, just between us, I don't know how the thing ever got into this house. No one who knows us would have given it to us and no member of the family would ever have bought one, except, maybe, in an optimistic moment filled with ideas of self-improvement which bordered on delirium.

Perhaps someone with a sense of humor gave it to us, knowing that we would always have "Friday" up on Monday and "Sunday" up on Thursday, just to cheer us up.

I envy those who have "His" and "Her" towels and dish towels with the days of the week on them. I envy those who have their menus made out a week ahead of time and their Christmas gifts wrapped months before Christmas. I envy them because I believe in the importance of home atmosphere and earnestly dream of being that kind of an organized homemaker.

Once after much struggle I finally got our Christmas cards all addressed only a few days before Christmas and then struggled through a couple more days to get them stamped. Before I got them to the post office Christmas had come and gone. I sent them out at Easter with a little note written on the envelope which said, "Just to let you know

A quick dessert trick for a children's party: Place canned cling peach halves, cup side up, on a baking tray. Fill each peach half with a marshmallow and place under broiler until marshmallow melts. Serve at once.

Teen-Easy Sewing! AS WE LIVE*Child Who Would Leave Home Is Unhappy There
By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

Children do not run away from home if home is a happy place. This mother should try to find out what is making her child unhappy.

(Q) "My nine-year-old daughter has been pulling away from home ever since she was a little child. She will not play with her younger sister but always goes away. I am sure this will make a bad girl out of her. No amount of punishment or talk will help. All I have to do is take my mind off her and she's gone. I give her all kinds of little things and duties to do, and I buy and give her things but nothing helps. Please tell me what to do."

(A) Do you give your child love and a feeling of being wanted at home as well as gifts and duties? When a child runs away to seek companionship elsewhere it usually means that she is unhappy in her home.

A younger sister is hardly adequate companionship for a nine-year-old child because the two girls are on such different levels of development.

She needs the companionship of a child her own age. When she goes away from home, is it to play with the other girls from her class at school? If so, that's normal and you should encourage it.

You can find out quickly what is back of her running away by what she does when she leaves home. If she is playing happily with other children, there is no reason for concern. If, however, she is merely trying to escape from what she considers an intolerable situation, then you should be concerned. The child who runs into a "bad" child is one who feels unloved and unwanted at home.

If you have a personal problem, write Elizabeth Hurlock in care of this newspaper.

Orphan Presents Problem To Local Housewife

Victoria, B.C., October 18—Five years ago today a certain local lady (who wishes to remain anonymous) drastically needed a refrigerator. At that time you will recall refrigerators were in very short supply, and the only kind our friend could get through a friend who was in the know, was a model with a name she had never heard of before. Feeling highly elated with her "good luck" the lady had the appliance installed in her home and all was fine, fine at least for almost twelve months. It was then that the fun started, first this went wrong, then something else, and so on the tale of woe went. Two years ago the manufacturers went out of business altogether, and since then the refrigerator in question has been really an orphan. Today the thing came to a climax, when our housewife, tired of a refrigerator that didn't work, traded the old thing in on a beautiful new 8 cu. ft. Westinghouse. Model on sale at Kent's for only $299.50. The "orphan" old and derelict long before its time is an example of what happens when you buy an appliance . . . the moral being of course to buy only known makes from reputable firms. See this 8 cu. ft. Westinghouse yourself . . . at Kent's, 742 Fort . . . it's no orphan, far from it.

New Toni WITH PRICELESS PINK LOTION Holds the set longer than any other permanent!*REGARDLESS OF YOUR HAIR STYLE . . . NO MATTER HOW YOU GOT YOUR PERMANENT BEFORE . . . NEW TONI HOLDS THE SET LONGER!

You'll forget all other ideas about permanents the first time you use New Toni with Priceless Pink Lotion. For the new Toni process is faster, gives a wave with the vibrant spring and silky-softness of a natural wave. Yes, and it holds the set longer than any other permanent you've ever had!

Never a lotion so wonderful! You've never used anything like Toni's new Priceless Pink Lotion! Itcurls more completely—yet is kinder to your hair! And that means a lovelier, livelier wave for you. Less re-setting. New freedom from the nightly chore of pin curls.

Never a neutralizer so fast! You save 20 minutes with the new Permafix method of neutralizing. And because Permafix neutralizes more thoroughly, it "locks in" your Toni wave so it can't come out. New Toni means all day—every day beauty for you month after month.

Never a guarantee so complete! If you don't say your new Toni looks lovelier and holds the set longer than any other permanent you've ever had, the Toni Company will cheerfully refund your money. So try New Toni—and you be the judge.

October Bridal Couple On Honeymoon in States

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Garfield Vye are en route to California for their honeymoon following the nuptial service in Centennial United Church Saturday evening which united them in marriage.

Rev. D. Carr officiated for the former Esther Iris Lindquist, daughter of Mr. G. A. Lindquist, Ferndale Road, and late Mrs. Lindquist, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Vye, King Road.

SCOTS GALS HAVE FINE FEET

LONDON, (CP)—The Scots can take a bow! Andre Filson, a French chiropodist, said at a London conference of chiropodists, boot and stocking manufacturers: "Scots have the best feet of any European nation that wears shoes consistently."

Filson added that on the Continent there are still too many distorted feet. When looking for a mannequin to show sandals in France, he found that all had crooked toes. He ended up with a Scots girl from Glasgow, in France to learn fashion designing.

Conference reports also disclosed that Scots buy 25 per cent more shoes annually than other Britons.

To Entertain Leader

Plans for entertainment of Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative party leader, who will visit Victoria, November 14, formed the principle discussion at the recent annual meeting of the Victoria Women's Progressive Conservative Association.

Election of officers took place with the following results: Mrs. D. F. A. McArthur, president; Mrs. Hubert Lethaby, first vice-president; Mrs. W. R. Roskelley, second vice-president; Mrs. G. McNaught, secretary; Mrs. A. Carloss, treasurer.

Salt Spring Island News

Fashion Show—Ladies' auxiliary to Canadian Legion Branch, Salt Spring Island, sponsored a fashion show and dance at the Community Hall recently. Conveners of affair were Mrs. W. H. Bradley and Mrs. A. B. Kropinski. Fall and winter styles were introduced by Mrs. P. Sturrock. Commentator was Mrs. Peter Cartwright. Gowns were modeled by Mesdames W. H. Bradley, E. Booth, J. H. Deyell, A. B. Elliott, T. Gurney, A. Wolfe Milner and Misses Wendy Fanning, June Mitchell, Wilma McGill, Catherine Popham, Patty Peterson and Emily Smith. Decoration of hall was in charge of Mrs. C. Springfield, assisted by Mesdames J. Mitchell, Desmond Crofton, A. R. Price, D. Crofton and A. M. Brown.

For motoring to California the bride wore a beige wool suit with mauve accessories and a muskrat topcoat with orchid corsage.

Centennial United Church Scene of Autumn Wedding

Rev. Douglas B. Carr officiated at the recent nuptial service in Centennial United Church which united Mae Diane Chew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Chew, Saanich, and George Gordon Edward Jones.

Mrs. Kenneth King played organ music and Mr. King sang "The Lord's Prayer." James E. Williams gave the bride a memento.

The bride wore a gown with fitted satin bodice and white lace jacket with lily-of-the-valley hem and full skirt. Her lace-covered headress held a fingertip veil and she carried a white Bible topped with corsage of red roses.

Misses Susan and Nancy Chew, sister of the bride, wore gowns of net over taffeta with satin embroidery jackets and matching headresses. They carried bouquets of chrysanthemums and carnations.

Mrs. Clarence Ellis, matron of honor, wore an identical gown in blue with matching bouquet. Flower girls, Florence Chan and Ann Mackinnon, wore frocks of pink and yellow, respectively, and carried bouquets of chrysanthemums and carnations.

Desmond Mex was best man and ushers were Raymond Payne and John "Dirk" Neufeld.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tier cake at the reception in Terry's Rose Room.

Rev. Carr proposed the toast.

Upon leaving for her honeymoon in Portland, the bride wore a black and white suit with black velvet collar and cuffs and black accessories.

Barbara Marshall-John Geddes Married in Cadboro Bay Church

Rev. William Hills officiated at the nuptial service in Church of St. George The Martyr, Cadboro Bay, Saturday evening, which united Barbara Louise Marshall, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Marshall, Victoria Avenue, and John Lavrock Geddes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Geddes, Amroth Place.

Chrysanthemums in autumn tones decorated the church and R. Webster played organ music.

The bride chose for her wedding a full length gown of snowy Chantilly lace over satin with strapless bodice and skirt of accordion pleats. This was worn with a jacket of lace, with Peter Pan collar and lily point sleeves. Her chapel veil of illusion net was arranged under a bonnet-style headress of matching Chantilly lace. Her grandmothers' sunburst brooch gleamed at her neck. She carried a crescent bouquet of pink roses. She was given away by her uncle Mr. W. G. Marshall.

Miss Shirley and Miss Peggy Lou Marshall attended their sister, gowned respectively in community hall, Wednesday at 3.

Leona Hulme Complemented Bridal Gown With Gold Heirloom Locket

Dorothea Leona Hulme complemented her wedding gown with a gold heirloom locket belonging to her great-great-grandmother, when she exchanged nuptial vows with Leslie James Aitken at a ceremony in First United Church Saturday evening. Rev. Moir A. J. Waters officiated.

The bride was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hulme, Pembroke Street, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Aitken, Wellington Avenue.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums decorated the church and Mrs. Roberto Wood played traditional wedding music as the bride walked up the aisle on the arm of her father. "Because" was played during signing of the register.

Murray Smellie was best man, and ushers were Robert Aitken Jr., Kenneth Hill and Harold Thirlwall.

At the reception in the K. of P. Hall, W. Clunie proposed the toast. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier cake topped with rosebuds and embedded in pink tulle. Pink candles also decorated the table and baskets of chrysanthemums added a floral touch in the hall.

Upon leaving for a honeymoon motoring up Island and on the mainland, the bride wore a Louise Young, chose a gown yellow knitted suit with brown similarly styled in primrose and white checked coat, chocolate. Both carried colonial late brown accessories and a bouquet of yellow and mauve white orchid corsage.

Public Hearing In Kathleen's Sinking Slated

The third and final inquiry into the sinking of Ss. Princess Kathleen at Lena Point on Sept. 7 will open in Vancouver Court House at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, under Mr. Justice Sidney Smith of the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

Mr. Justice Smith will be assisted by Capt. B. L. Johnson and Capt. J. F. Patrick, Vancouver-nautical assessors. F. A. Shepherd will act as transport department counsel.

The ship went aground early in the morning of Sept. 7, and sank that afternoon when she was lifted off the rocks by rising tide. All passengers and crew members were removed safely before she sank.

Two of the key witnesses will be Capt. Graham O. Hughes, shipmaster, and First Officer Charles W. Savage, who was on the bridge at the time of the accident.

FINDINGS UNDISCLOSED

Inquiries have already been conducted by the Canadian Pacific Railway, owners of the ship, and the Department of Transport, but findings were not released.

The probe which opens Wednesday is the formal investigation demanded by Maritime law, and will be open to the public.

Mr. Justice Smith will rule on responsibility for the accident and order disciplinary action if the evidence indicates it is required. A decision is expected by Friday.

In addition to the two officers, the quartermaster, lookout and night watchmen will be called to give evidence.

Racing Stable Brings $30,000

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., Oct. 20 (CP)—Stock and equipment of one of Canada's top standard breed farms, owned by Hugh Stewart of Peterborough, was sold by auction last week. About $30,000 was paid out for the 76 horses in the stable, mostly brood mares and yearlings. Top price of $1,225 was paid for Miss Iowalta, a brood mare with a good racing record.

Conversion of the three exchanges to the dial system is scheduled for the spring of 1954.

The Albion exchange will be beside the present building. The Belmont building will be near the junction of Sooke and Albert Head Roads, and the Colquitz office will be at Carey Road and Judicial Street.

The new organization will be responsible for the production, storage and marketing of all potatoes, carrots, turnips and other vegetables grown on the Island.

This was formerly done by the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board with headquarters on the mainland.

New Vegetable Sales Outlet Serves Island

Co-Operative Approved By Marketing Board

A newly-formed organization has been designated by the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board as sole selling agency for all controlled vegetable products on Vancouver Island, it was learned today.

The organization, known as the Island Vegetable Co-operative Association, was approved by the B.C. Marketing Board at Victoria earlier this month.

The new organization will be responsible for the production, storage and marketing of all potatoes, carrots, turnips and other vegetables grown on the Island.

This was formerly done by the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board with headquarters on the mainland.

RESULT OF COMPLAINTS

The new organization was formed as result of complaints from both island and mainland growers with regard to the marketing of vegetables.

Mainland growers felt that they were "carrying" losses incurred by island farmers. They were of the opinion that they would be better off carrying on by themselves.

On the other hand, some island growers felt that the coast board was inclined to favor farmers on the mainland.

The new Island organization has as its president Edgar Smith of Courtenay. R. N. Mangels, also of Courtenay, is secretary.

Directors are J. H. Thompson, Saanich; Bert Young, Duncan and Don Wilson, Nanaimo. Fred Taylor is the co-operative association's marketing representative in Victoria.

FAMOUS ISLAND

St. Helena, the island where Napoleon was exiled, lies 1,200 miles off the west coast of Africa.

BIG CUT RUMOR

Unconfirmed reports are that the government is aiming at a budget reduction of between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000.

JAZZ ENTHUSIASTS MAY HEAR MAINLAND MAESTRO'S MUSIC

Bill Heybrook's six-piece group will be on the "menu" tonight when the Victoria Jazz Society presents the second in a series of monthly jazz sessions.

The session will be held in the Naval Veterans' auditorium, 1417 Broad Street, starting at 8.

The group consists of the leader on tenor saxophone; Vic Keating, trumpet; Jack Kraeling, trombone; Ray Petch, piano; Mike Pretty, drums and Claire Anderson, bass.

The sessions are to be held in conjunction with monthly club meetings in the clubroom, 2017 Quadra Street, in the old Musicale Studios.

If the sessions prove successful, the society hopes to bring in musicians from Vancouver and Seattle.

Bomb Scare Proves Fake

NEWARK, N.J., Oct. 20 (AP)—The "Presidential Special" carrying President Truman to Washington whizzed through Pennsylvania Station here Saturday night while police scoured the big railroad depot for a bomb.

At 10:20 p.m. police received a phoned message from a husky-voiced man telling them he had planted a bomb in the station, and set it to go off at 11 p.m. Truman's train was scheduled to go through the station at 11:40.

Squads of detectives feverishly searched the depot. The "Presidential Special" roared through without mishap.

The search was called off at midnight. No bomb.

Mercury . . . styled for today's modern driving . . . sheer beauty in design from "jet-scoop" hood to trim rear deck. Every sleek curve will please your sense of balanced proportion and fitting rightness. Every gracious line seems to say: "Let's Go!"

Luxurious "Space-planned" interiors are distinctively appointed. Have ample leg room, elbow-room and head room. Easier, safer driving is assured with 17% greater visibility.

Mercury has much more than beauty, luxury and bigness . . . inside and out. As you travel along the roughest roads—up the steepest hills, you'll marvel at the nonchalant ease of its performance: You'll approve of the 125 Hp. "Hi-Compression" V-8 engine . . . the newest, most advanced in Mercury history:

3-WAY CHOICE IN TRANSMISSIONS:
Automatic Drive or Overdrive (both optional at extra cost), or Silent-Ease Synchronized Standard Transmission.

125 Hp. V-8 PERFORMANCE

Mercury's 125 Hp. "Hi-Compression" V-8 engine has a far greater power-to-weight ratio and better carburetion for more efficient performance. It's V-8 power at its best—with pace, balance and hustle—just as you like it—and expect it—from Mercury. It is the product of the organization which, in the past 20 years, has built more V-8 engines than all other automobile manufacturers combined.

NOW—TAKE A PRIZE-WINNING RIDE!

Mercury again won the Grand Sweepstakes award in the recent 1415-mile Mobilgas Economy Run for stock automobiles. Look at Mercury's three-years-in-a-row record, three out of three times winner in its price class; two out of three times sweepstakes winner against all cars in every class. Let Mercury prove to you why it is again "Number 1 Economy Car" and the most challenging car of our time.

FRENCH SCIENTIST ADRIFT ON RAFT TO PROVE SURVIVAL

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Oct. 20 (AP)—A French scientist has set out on a 5,000-mile Atlantic crossing aboard a tiny raft in an attempt to prove that men can survive on the fish and plant life they can take from the sea.

The 27-year-old physician, Dr. Alain Bombard, started drifting Sunday from the Canary Islands toward the West Indies. During the voyage, which he expects to take about 50 days, he said he would live on raw fish and plankton, a small sea organism. He planned to distill his own fresh water from the sea.

He drifted to the Canary Islands from Casablanca, Morocco, 600 miles to the northeast. Previously he had floated through the Mediterranean from Monte Carlo.

ANTI-POLIO SERUM SHOWING PROMISE

Johns Hopkins Scientist Develops Vaccine; May Be Effective Against All Three Types.

By WILLIAM MANCHESTER

(Copyright, Baltimore Evening Sun, 1952)

BALTIMORE, Oct. 20. (AP)—Working with little children, a Johns Hopkins scientist has developed and tested a vaccine which gives promise of being effective against all three types of polio.

"I am satisfied that it is possible to produce a satisfactory level of polio antibodies in human beings," Dr. Howard A. Howe, adjunct professor of epidemiology of Hopkins said today.

Antibodies are specific agents which can be developed in the blood to produce immunity against a disease.

Using a vaccine made of killed polio virus, Dr. Howe found that it made children develop antibodies against the virus. He presented his findings today at the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association in Cleveland.

In 1950, Dr. Howe had found the preparation of a triple that he could immunize chimpanzees made Dr. Howe's work panacea especially difficult. Polio is really three diseases. Any one of its three types of virus—Lansing, Brunhilde or Leon—can cripple. A preventive must be aimed at all of them.

Dr. Howe warned that the vaccine isn't ready for use—that he fore the vaccination.

Polio Common as Measles

Dr. Howe decided to give six of them the vaccine, and nothing to the other five. If the vaccine took, the inoculated six would develop antibodies in their blood. The others would not.

That is what happened. Polio is as common as measles, but most people don't know they've had it.

Antibodies for protection are manufactured in the blood of anyone who gets the polio virus. Of every 1,000 infections, it is estimated, less than 10 result in paralysis, presumably because the person did not develop enough antibodies in time to halt the infection.

The rest became just as immune to attack, from that same type of virus, as if they had been paralyzed.

At least 90 per cent of all people over 15 have been protected that way.

GIRL BANDIT WASN'T FOOLIN'

DETROIT, Oct. 20 (BUP)—Police in Detroit are seeking a girl bandit who wore a man's suit and hat, painted a mustache on her lip and staged two hold-ups.

Witnesses agreed the "gunman" was a woman. Paul Morris, 46, who thought she was "kidding," tried to approach her but jumped back as a 25-calibre bullet hit the wall behind him. She took $55.

Car Crash Injuries Fatal to B.C. Youth

VANCOUVER, Oct. 20 (CP)—A 17-year-old boy died in a hospital Sunday of injuries received a week ago when a car chased by police rolled over five times and crashed into a house after failing to negotiate a turn.

Dead is David Harper, one of three youths in a car police allege was stolen. The others are reported in good condition in hospital. They are under police guard.

His first venture into "off-beat" comedy was an inexpensive picture called "Francis," the story of a talking arm, minus that one grossed about $4,000,000, and he's followed it up with three more Francis pictures.

Then he dug up a mean looking cat and a novel by the irrepressible H. Allen Smith and came up with "Rhubarb," a cat that inherited a baseball team.

El Alamein—Ten Years Later

BY HAIG NICHOLSON

EL ALAMEIN, Oct. 20 (Reuters)—All is quiet today in the little town of El Alamein, lying between the blue Mediterranean to the north and the impassable Quattara depression to the south.

Main activity now is in a large cemetery where some 9,000 British Commonwealth dead are buried.

But 10 years ago on the night of Oct. 23, the thunder of guns in the darkness heralded the opening battle of El Alamein.

Behind one of the heaviest barrages then known in warfare,

Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery launched his Eighth Army in one of the decisive engagements of the war—a drive which was the beginning of the end for the Axis armies in North Africa.

Within 24 hours, Gen. Stummel, commander of the mixed German and Italian force, was dead at heart attack. Gen. Rommel, then in Germany, a sick man, hastened back to the battle raging at the gateway to Alexandria.

He arrived by air October 25 to find, according to General Cramer, that "Alamein was lost before it was fought" because "we had not the gasoline."

The battle continued fiercely for days. Then came the breakthrough, and the 2,000-mile advance of the Eighth Army to Tunis, with more battles on the way.

The majority of the dead who lie in El Alamein's quiet cemetery fell in that battle. Others have been brought into the large sandy resting place from small temporary cemeteries in the vicinity, and from isolated graves near where they died.

22-Day Drought Broken

Power Shortage Danger Averted

Victoria's record 22-day fall drought ended at 4:15 a.m. today with a light sprinkle of rain that turned into a good solid shower by mid-morning.

B.C. Forest Service officials welcomed the shower, and reported that every ranger district in the Vancouver Forest district except two on the Mainland have now had rain.

Engineers of the B.C. Electric also breathed a little easier at the sight of the rain.

"Our reservoirs are always low at this time of year," said one official, "but due to the exceptionally dry summer they were lower than usual."

"We weren't in any particular danger, but you can't go on indefinitely without power," he said.

FORECAST UNCERTAIN

The weatherman is doubtful that the rains will continue. He is forecasting cloudy skies for tonight and Tuesday with the odd shower, but said Victoria's rain was a purely local condition.

Vancouver, Nanaimo, Comox, Seattle, and Bellingham all reported no rain, but light falls were reported from Port Hardy and certain west coast points on Vancouver Island.

Today's shower was expected to finish the fire hazard that has kept the Highlands District shrouded in smoke all week, and had Langford fire department crews working almost every night.

B.C. Forest Service spent most of the week-end "mopping up" the Highlands fires with a large suppression crew.

HELP FISHERMEN

If the wet weather continues it will fill streams and rivers that have been too dry to permit migrating salmon to reach their spawning grounds.

For this reason the federal department of fisheries has banned net fishing around the Queen Charlotte Islands and on Vancouver Island between Pachena Point and Cape Scott, where salmon are still in the salt water close to the river mouths.

Farmers and other rural residents look forward to rain in general and the month of October alone, the city's water supply is in good shape.

British Troops Flown to Kenya

Reinforcements Ordered to East Africa As Mau Mau Terrorists Continue Pillage

LONDON, Oct. 20 (AP)—Britain is flying a battalion of white troops to Kenya tonight to cope with Mau Mau terrorists out to drive the white man from the East African colony.

The Colonial Office said the cruiser Kenya would be sent to Mombasa, 400 miles from Nairobi, within the next few days to support troops in the Kenya capital.

It will be the first time in years that a British battalion has been served in East Africa. The colony normally is garrisoned by African soldiers serving under white officers.

During the last few weeks Mau Mau terrorists have committed dozens of murders, arson, cattle killing and other crimes.

The Mau Mau is a secret society of the big Kikuyu tribe—whose warriors ranged the plains of Kenya until the British farmers moved in about 50 years ago.

Africans who refuse to accept the Mau Mau oath—usually sworn over the entrails of a goat at dead of night—are hung from the neck from rafters until unconscious.

BRITONS MURDERED

Figures given to the House of Commons by Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton last week showed that the society is responsible for 43 murders, including a prominent African chief and several Britons.

The walkout came at a time when coal stocks are at a near record high. The estimated 85,000 tons of stored coal is the biggest stockpile since 1942. Other persons have been driven to suicide by fear of the Mau Mau.

Meanwhile, it was reported from Nairobi that tribesmen Sunday night burned down the swanky Nyeri Polo Club and set fire to 300 acres of grazing land nearby belonging to two white farmers.

Peruvian delegate Victor Belaunde indicated he believes such a commission might get around the Communist refusal to accept the U.N. screening of Communist prisoners which has shown that thousands of them refused to return to Communist China or North Korea.

The commission should be made up of countries concerned, which would include Communist China, some assembly members and such neutral countries as Switzerland, Belaunde said.

Peru Urges Commission For Korea

BY NORMAN ALSTEDTER

UNITED NATIONS, Oct. 20 (CP)—Peru today urged the United Nations assembly to set up a commission which would attempt to end the prisoner-of-war deadlock in the Korean truce talks.

Typhoon Bears Down Upon Philippines

MANILA, Oct. 20 (AP)—One of the biggest typhoons of the year bore down on the central Philippines today. The Manila weather bureau said it would hit Samar Island early Tuesday.

Winds up to 140 miles an hour were reported at the storm center. The typhoon was moving slowly westward from a point 250 miles southeast of Luzon. Ships were warned to make for port and inter-island sailings were postponed.
